“My ideal GP job in Scotland”

This document is a summary of our exploratory conversations about working as a GP in Scotland. It hopes to capture a brief overview of your professional experience and interests, relevant aspects of your personal background and what your ideal job in Scotland might look like.

SRMC will send this document, along with your CV, to potential NHS employers who we think might have positions that would be of interest to you. We consider that the recruitment and retention of GPs and prospective GPs in Scotland is an important part of our public task to support the provision of health care in remote and rural areas.

Data Protection

The Scottish Rural Medicine Collaborative (SRMC) is supported by NHS Highland and the legal data protection responsibility is laid out in the NHS Highland Data Protection Notice Your Rights \(scot.nhs.uk\). NHS Highland considers that performance of our tasks and functions are in the public interest as a basis for holding personal information and necessary for recruiting healthcare staff that ultimately enables the NHS to provide healthcare services for patients.

We will use the personal information provided only where there is a clear legal basis to do so and any information shared will be appropriate, relevant and proportionate for the purpose of sharing. The SRMC and NHS Highland will not retain the information you provide for longer than is necessary and your information will be securely destroyed where we no longer have a legitimate reason to hold it. If you need help or advice, the NHS Highland Data Protection officer can be contacted at nhsh.dpohighland@nhs.scot
